OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Examiner)

Execution of the Civil Rights Bill in the Southern States---No Southerner will Accept the Office of Spy or Informer---The Military to Enforce the Bill---The Radical View of its Effect---Financial Crash---The Passage of the Bill in the House, etc.

WASHINGTON, April 10.

The instructions to the United States Judges in the States where the Civil Rights bill is to be executed will be issued, under the President's directions, by the Attorney-General. We shall soon see these instructions after the House shall pass the bill by a two-thirds vote, as they certainly will do. The President will, at least, see that suitable men are selected for office under the law—that is, respectable citizens of the States where the law is to be executed. But no respectable Southern citizen will accept the office of paid spy and informer and prosecutor. Any man who will accept an office under the law has already been declared in the Senate, by Mr. Cowan, to be a thief. The army of commissioners who are to execute this law cannot be raised in the South. If they are detailed from the North they must have military support.

The law will give rise to dangerous and exciting conflicts, and that is just what the Radicals desire. They pretend that the South is still in insurrection. They would be glad to prescribe it to give some proof of the allegation. Some of the Republicans say that the law will not be applicable in Georgia, and that other States will conform their legislation to it. But this is improbable. Cases will soon arise under the law which will bring test questions of its constitutionality before the United States Supreme Court. Congress has no right to declare who shall be citizens. This question will come before the United States Supreme Court, and, if decided on its merits, the law will fall through. The Radicals must then resort to a constitutional amendment, which they can only obtain, if at all, by denying to the eleven Southern States the right of voting upon it unless they ratify it. This dodge was to have been tried if the veto had been sustained.

A very remarkable warning has been given to the Republican party by a Radical Senator, General Lane, of Kansas, to wit, that if they did not restore this Union, the Democratic party would rise again, and do it. Republicans are afraid of such victories as they recently obtained in Connecticut. The masses of the people desire restoration, and will have it. They may still hope that the Republican leaders with whom they acted, in support of the move, will do it; but if they fail in their duty this year, and at this session, there will be an uprising in favor of peace and Union, as great as that which occurred in 1861, against disunion and rebellion.

A few symptoms of an impending financial crash occur daily. The New York Tribune says we shall have more of them before midsummer. Financial blunders, if they occur, will be attributed to the proper source—political associations, growing out of the factious position of Congress.

The House has passed the Civil Rights bill by a vote of one hundred and twenty-two to forty-one—more than two-thirds majority. The conservative vote was thus increased from the original vote on the first passage of the bill by three votes. The negative vote was thirty-eight. We gain three votes. At the same rate of gain, should it continue, it will take forty years to change the relative vote of the two parties in Congress. This time corresponds with the number of years passed by the Israelites in their march to the promised land. Probably our "Moses" may have the good fortune to see it.

KAPPA.

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Senate.—Mr. Trumbull offered a resolution instructing the Secretary of the Senate to present to the Secretary of State the bill to protect all persons in their civil rights, and to furnish the means for their vindication, together with the signatures of the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House, attesting that the act was passed by a two-thirds vote of both Houses, etc.

Mr. McDougall protested that the bill had not received a two-thirds vote, because the States were not fully represented in the Senate.

The resolution was adopted.

A resolution was passed granting the use of the Senate chamber to Mrs. M. C. Walling, to deliver a lecture on the condition of the South, on the evening of the 17th instant.

House.—Mr. Moulton, from the Committee of Naval Affairs, reported resolutions authorizing Admiral Paulding and Commodore Radford, United States Navy, to receive decorations from the King of Italy, which were adopted.

Mr. Raymond, from the Committee of Foreign Affairs, made a preliminary report on the subject of a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Navy to send an armed vessel to protect American fishing interests in Canada waters.

The report was in the nature of a resolution requesting information from the President, as to what steps have been taken for the protection of our fishing interests in that quarter, and whether any legislation is necessary to secure that protection. The resolution was adopted. The House rejected by three majority the bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy.

FEARS OF AN INUNDATION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.—The people of Vicksburg are very much alarmed at the high water which now prevails in the Mississippi. The planters are in the greatest alarm, as there is every indication of the river breaking the levee and overflowing the country.

CLEANING OF NEGRO TENEMENTS.—The work of cleaning and purifying the negro tenements of the District of Columbia is being rapidly proceeded with, under the direction of Capt. W. F. Springin, superintendent of Freedmen for the District.

OUTRAGEOUS MURDER BY A NEGRO.—A drunken negro at Murfreesboro', Tennessee, ran against a little girl the other day, and angered because she was in his way, deliberately drew a revolver and blew out her brains. He is in custody and will be hanged.

SALISBURY BRASS BAND

REORGANIZED 1st January, 1866, on a larger scale than formerly, under the direction of its former tutor, W. H. NEAVE, who was also chief music writer and Band Teacher in Gen. Lee's army. He will be assisted in leadship and direction by his brother, Ed. Neave, leader during the entire late war of Gen. Lee's best and most favorite band, viz: 4th N. C. The Band is composed of the best members of the old Band, together with the best members of several of the fine Bands trained by W. H. Neave, in camps, who have moved to Salisbury from all points in the State to follow their respective vocations and continue the study and practice of music. This Band will be a permanent institution for all State and festive occasions, and will equal the best to be found in the world, if sustained by those desiring a fine order of Brass and String music; if not, it must go down after this year.

W. H. Neave is also agent for the celebrated Dodworth Brass instruments, proved and warranted to him, and by him to others; also, the most pleasing, effective and popular Piano music, selected by his friends, H. B. Dodworth and Kent Botsford, New York. For beginners, medium players, and advanced musicians, no trash for either.

Music composed and arranged to order for Parlor, Orchestral and Brass Band use for any kind and number of instruments.

Salisbury has been selected for Musical Headquarters for its central position.

N. B. Mere letters of enquiry for musical information, but with no view to business with Mr. Neave or Band, must contain two postage stamps.

The Trial of Maj. Gee.

This trial approaches a point of extreme interest. We have all along regretted our inability to give the space and bear the expense required for a full publication of the entire trial—but it was unavoidable.

We have already stated that the counsel of the accused, on Monday last, moved to quash the proceedings in the case, because of the want of jurisdiction in the Court since the proclamation of the President. This was overruled, and we learn that the accused has since sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Fowle, which has been served upon Gen. Ruger, to have Maj. Gee before him on Saturday next.—In the meantime, the examination of witnesses on the part of the prosecution proceeds.

We are not competent to give an opinion upon the policy or fitness of these movements on the part of the learned Counsel. We are, however, inclined to the belief, that the effort, to arrest the proceedings by a writ of habeas corpus will be as ineffectual as in the former case. Indeed, as a friend of Maj. Gee, and fully satisfied of his innocence of the charges alleged, we prefer that the investigation should go on. The charges and the evidence to sustain them have already gone out to the world. As matters now stand, though there is nothing yet proven which, to our mind, sustains the charges, yet up to the present period he is a damaged man, and the government in arresting and the Court in trying him will be more than justified before the public. This is not an ordinary case of proceeding.

The government and the Court, in this trial, are making a record for history; and the principles involved in the trial, as well as the actors are either to meet the sanction or condemnation of history and of the judgment of mankind.—Therefore to arrest proceedings at this juncture, before the accused has had a hearing, it appears to us, would be unjust to him.

Maj. Gee is not brought before the Commission as a civilian, nor is it charged as a crime, that he was an ex officer in the late Confederate service, but, being in that service as an officer, did he so demean himself in that office as he should have done according to the rules and regulations of civilized war, or did he so violate his office as to be guilty of inhuman, cruel, and murderous conduct, such as would convict him of a high misdemeanor by the laws of war? Such an investigation, we think, not inappropriate to a Military Commission, composed of officers who feel the weight of their responsibility, who have a proper respect for history, and who have a high sense of justice and right to prompt them, as we presume this Commission to be composed.

The government is pledged to make good its charges, specifically and fully, or give the accused an honorable acquital. Nor can it complain if held up rigidly to the full proof of its allegations. On failure to produce such proof as removes all "reasonable doubt" of the guilt of the accused, the government and the honorable Court cannot, will not risk the consequences of a conviction. It can urge no plea for want of time or means to conduct the investigation thoroughly; hence it cannot hesitate to grant the accused the fullest benefit of time, counsel and means for his vindication. With these we cannot doubt that a gentleman who has so long and deservedly borne the highest character in his own State, who can bring to his defense so large a number of the best men in the land, and of those immediately and for a time cognizant of his entire official conduct, whose testimony will certainly exonerate him from all blame, will be able to present such an array of proof in his vindication as to convince the world of his innocence.

Hence we have no fears of the continuance of the investigation. We believe Maj. Gee is entitled to the vindication which the testimony in his behalf will give him. We want the imputation removed from the government that Military Courts are formed to convict. We want at least that this case shall refute that charge, and that the future historian and writers upon civil and military law shall be able to vindicate the justice and the honor of the U. S. Military Commission.

Congress a Revolutionary Body.

The direct purpose and effect of the President's Proclamation, as we have heretofore remarked, was fully to restore the Southern States to their old status as members of the Federal Union. This being so, the Constitution says: "The Senate of the United States shall consist of two Senators from each State;" and again: "No State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate." An examination of the Constitution will reveal as stringent regulations in the composition of the House of Representatives. And yet again: The Constitution expressly declares that taxation and representation shall go together. By what authority is the former practised, while the latter is denied? Is not the deduction logical, in view of these things, that the present Congress is an incompetent body, so long as it excludes the Senators and Representatives of the South? Are not the majority, in fact, revolutionists? We believe that the Supreme Court,—which is the proper tribunal to pronounce in the premises,—will so decide, if the point is presented properly.

"WHIPPED.—Reuben McDowd, a negro, was tried this morning, before Judge Fowle, upon the charge of stealing a pair of shoes from Mr. Rosenbaum, and the jury found him guilty.—His punishment was assessed at thirty-nine lashes on the bare back, which was duly administered by the sheriff."—Raleigh Progress, April 3rd.

"In view of such occurrences as these—quite common in the South—we think the Civil Rights bill has not become a law a day too soon. A gentleman who was present, and witnessed the execution of the above sentence, writes a friend in this city, that it was "the most horrible thing I ever saw. The negro was made to take off all his clothes. The sheriff then took a cowhide and gave him thirty-nine lashes, bringing the blood everytime and using up two cowhides. I saw another whipped, today. I understand that they are going to cut the ear off one to-morrow, which is another way they have of punishing here."

It is time that American civilization was thoroughly purged of these relics of barbarism. Certain sections of the Civil Rights bill, if applied to the Judge who pronounced the sentence and the Sheriff who executed it, would have a salutary effect upon both. No stronger argument could be adduced to prove the necessity of this measure, than the occurrence related above.—Washington Chronicle, (Forney.)

We extract the above, for the purpose of correcting its falsehoods and to criticise its statements.

The correspondent, above alluded to, shows both his ignorance and his malice against Southern people. The negro was not made to take off all his clothes. The law required him to be whipped on his bare back, and his clothes were removed from his body, in order to its execution. The Sheriff first used a wagon whip, which broke, and then he used another, perhaps a cowhide, which was neither used up nor worn by the whipping. Some blood came, as is usual in such cases, but the lash did not bring blood every time. No person was tried for perjury, having sworn falsely on a trial of a capital case, which is the only offence now, by our laws, punished with cropping, and hence there was no foundation for his hearing the story that "they were going to cut the ear off of one to-morrow.

The Chronicle is so horror struck at this relic of barbarism, that it thinks the civil rights bill has not been passed too soon. This old Mosaic law may be harsh, but it has been found an effective method of arresting crime. Forney has been charged with engaging in a collusion with a certain Edwin Forrest in a certain matter. If it is true, the law of Moses would have been a very reasonable punishment for the offence.

But what has this case to do with the Civil Rights bill? The laws of North Carolina secure to colored people the same civil rights, and impose the same penalties for the same offences on them, that they do in the cases of white persons. If negroes are whipped for stealing, so are white people, and so in all other criminal offences. Judge Fowle and the Sheriff, as the sworn officers of the law, only performed their duty; and does the Chronicle or the Congress suppose that, under such circumstances, any U. S. District Court and Jury in North Carolina could be found to punish them for the discharge of their duty? Certainly not. Nor does the Civil Rights bill, on any fair construction, propose to arrest or punish the judicial or executive proceedings of any officer in North Carolina, who conforms to the requirements of the State laws. It only proposes (what is clearly unconstitutional,) to interfere with the municipal regulations of a State, which refuses to all native born persons the same civil privileges, or to affix the same penalties to the same offences, which they award to white persons. But the laws of North Carolina propose to do that very thing, and, if it is not done, it is because the U. S. government interferes with and prevents it. We hold, therefore, that the Civil Rights bill, if in operation in the State, could not touch the persons or conduct of Judge Fowle or the Sheriff of Wake, for the discharge of their duty in the premises.

We touch not the point, that whipping is a remnant or relic of barbarism. That question has not been settled by any competent authority, and cannot be, to the satisfaction of North Carolina, by Radical ethics. No humane man loves to see any harsh law executed, but the necessities of society compel a resort to harsh means, rather than jeopard its peace and safety.

LATEST NEWS.—We gather the following items from the Progress, of last evening:

Capt. Winder, imprisoned upon charge of cruelty to Federal prisoners, has been released from confinement, by order of the President.

The Legislature of Wisconsin has passed resolutions of censure against Senator Doolittle for voting to sustain the President's veto.

The Methodist General Conference, now in session at New Orleans, has appointed two Bishops to proceed to Washington and thank the President for restoring the Church property.

School Books for Southern Use.

A correspondent of the N. C. Presbyterian mentions the fact, that some of the school-books published at the North, and brought to the South for sale, contain offensive and insulting, besides false and unfair, chapters in regard to the late war. The Progress, of this city, we are pleased to see, also alludes in very proper terms to the same indignity.

Our own attention has been called to some of these publications, which have been attempted to be introduced into Southern schools. They are represented as abounding in perversions of historical truth and in illiberal and wanton reflections upon the character and motives of our people. We may afford to look with contempt and loathing upon the animus of such productions, but we should be very careful never to allow one of them to be used in our schools.—Any teacher attempting so to introduce them should be promptly discountenanced. The time has not yet arrived for writing an impartial history of the part we acted in the late struggle. And, when the time does arrive, we shall not look for it from New England, whence the most of this pestilent school literature emanates.

In this connection we may call attention to another fact. Perhaps numbers of Southern parents or guardians, anxious to prove their disposition to "harmonize," or wishing their daughters and wards to avail themselves of the imaginary advantages of fashionable schools at the North, have sent them to such beyond the Potomac. This, of course, is a matter wherein parents have the sole right to act as they may deem best, but they should be particular as to the kind of schools which they patronize. An instance has been related to us, in which young ladies, in one of these seminaries, have been insulted by malignant allusions, in the course of recitation, to the conduct of our military and civil leaders in the recent war.—The instructor who would thus wantonly wound the delicate sensibilities of a girl committed to his charge, is a brute, whom "it would be gross flattery to call a coward."

By direction of the Quartermaster General, Brevet Major James Gleason, Quartermaster, U. S. A., will start in a day or two to make a tour of inspection of all the battle-fields of Virginia, for the purpose of ascertaining, as far as possible, the number and location of all the Union dead that have been buried on the fields. It is the intention of the Government, as we have stated, to have all these remains brought to the Arlington Cemetery for interment.—Richmond Enquirer.

This action, upon the part of the Government, is eminently proper. The government owes a debt of gratitude to the men, who fell in the struggle to maintain its supremacy, and that consideration, to say nothing of the claims of humanity, renders it becoming that their remains should be respected and honored.

The same reasons appeal with equal force to the States of the South in behalf of their dead. When those States called, their sons recognized the authority and rushed to arms at the summons. They believed that they were perilling their bodies in defence of a good cause. They sealed that faith with their lives—lives very precious to relatives, friends and communities. Each State of the South, therefore, owes it to its good name, by every obligation of justice, pride, gratitude and humanity, to guard with pious reverence, so far as it can, the ashes of its gallant dead.

Imposing Example of a Statesman.

When about to vote on the passage of the Civil Rights bill, Mr. Doolittle made a most eloquent and powerful speech in support of the President's restoration policy. In the course of his remarks he read the instructions of the Legislature of Wisconsin, commanding him and his colleague to vote for the Civil Rights bill in order to pass it over the President's veto. These instructions, said Mr. Doolittle, I shall disregard. He then proceeded to give his reasons for this course, as telegraphed in the Congressional report, and thus continued:

"I know, sir, that if I disregard these instructions, and vote to sustain the President's policy, that act will terminate my public life. Be it so. I would not sit here for an hour with the weight upon my conscience which I would have if I failed in this hour in what I conceive to be my duty to my country. I respect the opinions of the men who have constituted themselves my instructors: but they have been deceived and misinformed. If they were here, they would think and act differently."

The Washington Chronicle says "a very touching" compliment was paid to the Senators who voted for the Civil Rights bill. A beautiful bouquet of the rarest flowers was sent to each, and to Forney! What rendered the testimonials particularly interesting, was the fact that they were presented, the Chronicle says, "by the colored ladies of the District." "An ounce of civet, good apothecary!" It has, however, been too long the custom among the negro-worshippers to say "white women" and "colored ladies," to excite much remark now. De gustibus non est disputandum.

Adjutant General.

We are pleased to learn that Gov. Worth has appointed Col. John A. Gilmer, Jr., of Guilford Co., Adjutant General of the State. This is an excellent selection. Col. Gilmer will bring to the discharge of the duties of the office a ripe experience in military details.

The City papers, and the press in the Eastern part of the State, are requested to notice particularly the changes that have been made in Bishop Atkinson's appointments. The changes have been necessitated by the recent illness of the Bishop.

A great deal is said in the Radical press about "keeping faith with the freedmen!"—We hope that, after a while, it will not be considered disreputable to consider the propriety of keeping a little faith with the white man.

Washinington Items.

THE QUESTION OF A GENERAL AMNESTY has been before the Cabinet once, but was opposed by all, so says report, save Mr. Seward.—Should the President, therefore, conclude to issue such a proclamation, looking to that end, he will have to do it pretty much on his own responsibility.

THE TRIAL OF MR. DAVIS.

Mr. Raymond, of New York, offered a resolution requesting the President to take speedy steps for the trial of Jefferson Davis for treason. Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

(By all means let us have the trial. Let us have a judicial decision upon the question of whether he is guilty of treason. We are sure the President would pardon him if convicted, but it were well to have an authoritative exposition of the law of treason, and of the crime which Mr. Davis has committed.)

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

A serious conflict of jurisdiction has occurred between the State courts of South Carolina and the military, under General Sickles. The courts have sentenced white men, convicted of larceny, to be punished with stripes, under the old criminal code of South Carolina. General Sickles forbade the execution of the sentence, for the reason that it was abhorrent to the ideas of philanthropy and usages of modern civilization. The circuit courts of the State have therefore, it appears, declined to try criminals at all. The President is appealed to by the State authorities to countermand General Sickles's order.

(Of course General Sickles would have the same right to prohibit the hanging or imprisonment of criminals; and the courts merely manifest a proper self-respect in refusing to try cases which a military officer claims the right to review.)

CIVIL RIGHTS LAW—IN WHAT STATES CONTESTED.

In Indiana, or Illinois, under their State laws, which prohibit the immigration of negroes into those States, or their residence there, the constitutionality of the new law may be tested. The law will execute itself, though the Federal courts in like manner with the Fugitive Slave law. The President will have nothing to do with its execution except in the appointment of United States district judges. Some of these are already appointed; others will be in the course of the year. The President must take care that he does not select men for judges who would abuse their power to speculate, like United States cotton agents, upon the necessities or apprehensions of the citizens of the States where the law is to be executed.

The first section of the law goes into effect at once, declaring who are citizens of the United States.

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS.

Postmaster-General Dennison will shortly issue a new postage stamp of the denomination of fifteen cents, which will bear on its face a likeness of the late President Lincoln. It will be used in prepaying postage for foreign countries.

[From the Baltimore Sun of Tuesday.]

The Southern Relief Fair.

The second week of the great Southern Relief Fair opened yesterday under equally as favorable auspices as the first. After the stormy weather of the two preceding days, the sun broke forth beautifully, and with a much milder temperature, the streets were, at comparatively an early hour, filled with people in every direction. The influx of strangers to the city, which was so marked last week, appeared to have increased rather than diminished, many Southern and Western merchants having deferred their periodical visits in order to be present during the great exhibition. In addition to this, the round trip tickets issued by the various railroad and steamboat companies has had the effect of bringing a very large number of persons to the city; whilst the great interest felt in the Fair by the people of our own and adjoining States has caused thousands to visit the city who might otherwise not have done so.

The fair did not open until noon yesterday, that hour having been fixed upon in order to enable the ladies to rearrange their tables, place upon them fresh stocks of goods, and to clean and fix up the hall. When the hour for opening arrived there was a dense crowd of persons congregated, all eager to gain admittance, and before many minutes the steady tide of visitors caused the hall to be filled in every portion. It continued thus throughout the day, and in the evening the crowd present exceeded, if such were possible, that of any previous occasion.—Notwithstanding the immense crowd, and the consequent jostling, and pulling and hauling, every person appeared to preserve their equanimity—all evidently being in good humor with himself, his neighbor, "and the rest of mankind." The Blues' Band, Prof. Holland, were again in attendance, and from the music stand at the south end of the gallery sent forth melodious sounds. Many were those who attempted to promenade to the lively airs performed by the band, but ever and anon such parties would be brought up all standing by the dense crowd, and while listening to a lively air would be compelled to move even slower than "dead march" time.

VISIT FROM ADMIRAL SEMMES.

This gentleman, recently released from confinement in Washington, and now on his way to his home in Alabama, visited the fair yesterday. After viewing the many articles of interest, the gentleman was escorted to the lunch room by Miss A. Spencer, a relative, and after dining with the ladies, took his departure, evidently much pleased with his visit.

THE FAIR TO CLOSE ON THURSDAY.

It was determined by the Board of Managers to close the Fair on Thursday evening, positively. Those, therefore, who have not as yet visited the great exhibition should not fail to do so without delay.

A CORRESPONDENT of the National Intelligencer, writing from Mississippi, thus accurately pourtrays the state of feeling at the South:

"The people of Mississippi, and, I suppose, of all the Southern States, look upon the struggle now going on at Washington with patience and fortitude. Although they feel keenly the sting of injustice, which they have been, and are now being subjected to, yet they are prepared for the worst, hoping that the day is not far distant when truth and justice shall reign supreme, and when the Union shall be restored in all its pristine purity. A few individuals here, who never got mad until the war was over, appear very belligerent at times, but they only constitute the twelfth hour vaporers, and are perfectly harmless."

GRANT REFUSES TO BE ARRESTED BY A CIVIL OFFICER.—Lieutenant-General Grant was arrested, on Sunday afternoon, in Washington City, D. C., by officer Baily, on the charge of fast driving. The officer had quite a race after the General, and when he caught up the General offered to pay the fine, but refused to be arrested. The officer having no authority to receive fines on the highway, desired the General to report at the station house, but he immediately drove off at full speed.

For the Sentinel.

CHAPEL HILL, April 9th, 1866.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Since the communication of your correspondent, "Elttab," of the 2nd ult., I have seen nothing in your journal relative to the occurrences transpiring here. Although the "pile of letters bearing the same superscription" in days gone by is "immensely" huge, yet, however great its enormity, I throw in this mite, though it be the widow's, to swell the bulk. Your correspondent seemed to think that, although Chapel Hill had undergone such a material metamorphosis, (pardon the word, I beseech you, for "Elttab" has inculcated the idea,) yet I cannot but suggest, with all due deference to the opinionated belief of "Elttab," that the village contains all its "pristine serenity," and sadly more than its "ante bellum" (I quote from "Elttab") "mournful monotony."—And, Messrs. Editors, I have an exalted opinion of the Freshmen, and I cannot but charge "Elttab" with wantonly trespassing on the Freshman's prerogative to act as he should esteem right, by making him a mark for his arrogance and pedantry; and although I must ask to be excused from undertaking the championship of the poor and oppressed Freshman, yet I cannot but object to the sable and odoriferous comparison that "Elttab" instituted.

"Judge Battle's Law School is flourishing like a green bay tree." Well, Messrs. Editors, I cannot say that I admire the simile, for the Bible, you know, says that the ungodly "flourish like a green bay tree;" and I am sure that some of my friends, who are reading Law under the Judge, would object to being classified among the ungodly, for some of them are monstrous sensitive on that point. It is true that the well balanced minds of one of them, with its native and marvelous tendency towards those brilliant qualifications that characterize genius, might enable him to steel himself against the crushing effects of such a comparison;—but while he, sustained and encouraged by his brilliant intellect, wards off all insinuations as to the probability of his failing to become a licentiate, yet there are others, friends of mine, Messrs. Editors, who, unfortunately, are not men of near so high an order of genius, who must, if "Elttab's" insinuations be correct, stand shivering, when the Supreme Court convenes, amid "misfortune's wintry snow." But I presume, from the "sparkling wit" that "Elttab" displayed in his communication of the 2nd, that there would be no necessity for him to explore Blackston, even, in order to become a licentiate.

I am surprised that the law class has not made some manifestation of their gratitude to "Elttab" for the kind and generous interest he has displayed in their behalf. I think them heinously ungrateful. Won't you, Messrs. Editors, in the kindness of your hearts, endeavor to prevail upon "Elttab" to write frequently for your journal? We, if not as aspirants to become, as I fear "Elttab" is, "limbs of the law," at least as limbs of the University, would I, assure you, always bestow on his precious communications all the praise they deserve.

QUID NUNC.

Circular in Relation to Stamping Instruments issued without Stamps, or insufficiently Stamped.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Internal Revenue,
WASHINGTON, March 16, 1866.

The first Internal Revenue Act took effect, so far as related to stamp duties, October 1, 1862. Instruments executed and delivered prior to that date, though they may be recorded afterwards, are not chargeable with stamp duties.

It any instrument subject to stamp duty was issued after October 1, 1862, and prior to August 1, 1864, unstmped, or insufficiently stamped, the appropriate stamp may be affixed in the presence of the Court, Register or Recorder, as provided by section 163 of the act of June 30, 1864.

Any instrument issued since August 1, 1864, unstamped, or insufficiently stamped, may be stamped by the Collector upon payment for the proper stamp, and of a penalty of fifty dollars; and where the amount of the stamp duty exceeds fifty dollars, on payment also of interest on said duty at the rate of six per cent from the day on which the stamp should have been affixed.

If the instrument is presented to the Collector within twelve calendar months from its issue, the Collector is authorized to remit the penalty, provided it shall appear to his satisfaction that the omission to stamp it was by reason of accident, mistake, inadvertence, or urgent necessity, and without wilful design to evade or delay the payment of stamp duty.

If the instrument is not presented within twelve calendar months, the penalty and interest must be paid to the Collector before he can render it valid by affixing the appropriate stamp, without regard to the cause of the omission to stamp it at the time of its issue. The Commissioner has no power to remit this penalty.

Deputy Collectors, unless acting as Collectors under section 39, have no authority to affix stamps or remit penalties under section 158.

The stamp to be affixed to any instrument is that required by the law existing at the time when the instrument was made, signed and issued.

When an instrument is properly stamped under either of said sections, the stamping relates back to the time when the instrument was issued, and renders it from the beginning as valid to all intents and purposes as if it had been duly stamped when made, signed and issued.

The whole amount of penalties paid to Collectors for validating unstamped instruments should be returned on Form 58, with other unassessed penalties, and the money deposited to the credit of the Treasury of the United States with other collections.

RICHMOND, April 10.—At Harvey & Williams's warehouse to-day, a large assortment of fancy yellow leaf tobacco was sold, at price ranging from $41 to $175 per hundred lbs. These are the highest prices obtained since the close of the war.

It is said the President will declare universal amnesty in a few days. We begin to think it time we (the junior,) were pardoned. We sent in a petition last September, through Gov. Holden, and that's the last of it. Our crime consisted in being a Confederate Postmaster—Danville Times.

NEW GOODS.

LOW PRICES.

BOUGHT SINCE THE DECLINE.

THERE IS NOT A MORE DESIRABLE STOCK OF NEW

SPRING AND SUMMER GOODS,

Comprising a general assortment, than those we have just purchased in the Northern Cities, and now offer to our customers and the public. None can undersell us and live by selling goods.

It is gratifying to know that our taste and judgment, in selecting goods, are appreciated, as shown not only by expression, but by the way we sell them.

We would call attention to our

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Capt. W. E. Pierce invites proposals for the supply of his Lumber yard.

"In Vinculis, or the Prisoner of War," being the "Memoirs of a Confederate Prisoner in Federal pens," is spoken of as a work of great interest. It is from the pen of A. M. Keiley, Esq., Editor of the Petersburg Index. See Prospectus.

J. J. Litchford, Auction and Commission Merchant, announces an attractive auction for to-morrow, (Saturday,) 2½ o'clock.

The Messrs. Tucker announce a large importation of pure flint ice. This is a luxury, indeed.

THE 13TH OF APRIL.—This day, twelve months ago, the armies of Gen. Sherman entered the City of Raleigh. Our quiet streets, this Spring morning, present a very different appearance from what they did on that memorable morn, when they were literally blocked up by the immense hosts in blue, and when excitement, apprehension and sadness were visible upon almost every countenance. Our people, recognizing at the time the fact that the cause for which they had contended was lost, showed every disposition to acquiesce, not gladly, but sincerely, in the result. Twelve months have passed,—they have fulfilled every requirement that was demanded of them; and that they are not this day fully restored to all their constitutional relations is no fault of their's.

City Charter Election.

The Legislature amended the charter of this city at its late session, giving to the municipal authorities larger discretion in regard to taxation. The 23rd of the present month, Monday week, has been designated as the day, when the acceptance or rejection of the new charter will be submitted to the voters of the city.

We have heard but one objection urged against the new charter, and that is an important one, i. e. the authorizing of the Commissioners to lay taxes at too high a rate, as a maximum. If the growth of the city and its prospects for business or improvement were at all encouraging, we would be among the last to limit the power of the Commissioners in the exercise of a wise discretion, in the liberal expenditure of means for its improvement, in all necessary matters, or in beautifying it. We are not of the penny-wise, pound-foolish policy men. We believe that money, wisely expended, when people have it, either in public or private enterprise, will always pay. But when people are almost destitute of money, and when it is impossible, with the present prospects of the city, to expend largely and wisely, and make it pay, it becomes us to ponder the step which may end in injury, before we take it.

But it may be said, the charter does not oblige our Commissioners to lay the taxes up to the maximum; they are only authorized to go up to the maximum, if necessary. We have heard a good deal of that kind of talk, both in reference to this and to other matters, and yet every body knows, that it is seldom the case that men can be found who are as provident in the expenditure of the public money, as with their own. We must take things as we find them—as they are, and not as we would have them.

The financial history of the city, for many years, has shown, that a large amount of money has been annually contributed for its improvement and for the comfort of its inhabitants, and yet strangers coming to the city leave with the impression, that but little effort is made to preserve the cleanliness of the city or the improvement of its streets, its cemetery, its bridges and its pumps, or to maintain the efficiency of its police.

We are told that $35,000 at least will be required for city purposes the present year; and this in a city of scarcely 5000 inhabitants, with a trade confined to a small area of the surrounding country, no public works going on beyond the work at one Rail Road Depot—with but one foundry and no factories—nothing, in fact, to sustain or justify such an expense. Is there another case like it in the State or the United States, where so small a city, with so little business, and so poor a people, are taxed so heavily? If there is, we should like to know it. And this sum is not expended in high salaries, but in odds and ends that make up so large an aggregate.

There are two kinds of expenditure to which the voters of the city must look. First, the provision for the payment of its interest and debt. This must not be overlooked. The credit of the city must be preserved. But beyond this, it occurs to us that the expenditure for the ordinary uses of the city might be considerably lessened. A shrewd managing Yankee, we think, could take the job for $20,000 and make money.

One of the large items of expense is lighting the city. Is it not strange that the city did not take at least half the stock in the Gas Company? This item, in this way, might have been greatly lessened.

Under the circumstances, therefore, we are inclined to think it is unwise to enlarge the powers of the Commissioners to increase the taxes beyond the present maximum, and that, therefore, the new charter should be rejected.

The consequences which have been suggested, as a legal result of its rejection, i. e. the right thereby secured, under the old charter, to the suffrage of that class of the population recently declared by the Civil Rights bill to be "citizens of the United States," we think hardly worth considering, as, before the necessary occurrence of another city election, the charter can be amended by the Legislature to prevent any such result.

In these remarks, we design to enter no complaints or charges against any one. Perhaps all who have been connected with our city organization have done the best they could, and it may be that we are wholly incorrect in the estimate we have formed of the expenditures necessary for a city like this; yet it must strike every one, that, in view of the present condition and prospects of the city, this is no time for large expenditure.

IMMIGRATION MEETING IN CHARLOTTE.—A large meeting of the people of Mecklenburg was held in Charlotte, on the 10th., to express their views in regard to immigration. Col. Wm. Johnston presided, and Messrs. W. J. Yates and Jno. Hutchison acted as Secretaries. The meeting was addressed by Ex-Gov. Vance, Gen. J. A. Young and others. The following excellent resolutions were adopted upon the occasion:

WHEREAS, various reports are being circulated prejudicial to our loyalty, and charging that as a people we are hostile to the settlement of immigrants in our midst, and whereas, we are fully persuaded that there is no more efficient plan for the development of our State resources, and those of the South generally, than the free introduction of immigrants and capital,

Resolved, 1. That we, the citizens of Mecklenburg, do wholly deny all such reports as entirely false and unjust to us, and as likely to retard our growth as a people and the development of our industrial resources.

Resolved, 2. That we do hereby extend a hearty welcome to all who, with honest intentions, desire to come among us and settle and participate in the development of our boundless resources—agricultural, mineral and manufacturing.

Resolved, 3. That all reports of unkind treatment of those who have come into our midst, for the above stated purposes, have originated in a spirit of gross misrepresentation and of injury toward our entire people, North and South, and prejudicial to the restoration of that peace, harmony and prosperity which is so desirable to all good men.

Resolved, 4. That as slave labor (the chief labor by which our Southern soil has heretofore yielded such abundant harvests) is now abolished, the settlement of laborers from Europe and the North in our midst is a subject of the highest importance.

Resolved, 5. That we now offer to all honest, industrious and well-intentioned foreigners and natives, who may be disposed to settle among us, work at remunerative prices, kind and hospitable treatment, and a share of our fertile lands.

Resolved, 6. That we have taken the oaths of allegiance and amnesty in good faith, and that we will render a cheerful and ready obedience to the Constitution and all laws passed in accordance thereto.

GENERAL NEWS.

The London Times of the 30th. says that there is too much reason to fear the peace of Europe is about to be broken by one of the most unjust and unnecessary wars of modern times. The Times heartily trusts that England may hold aloof. Several war vessels are preparing for sea at Plymouth. It is reported they are to go to the St. Lawrence.

DIRECT TAXES COLLECTED DURING THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1866.—The payments of the direct tax under the act of August 5, 1861, for the first quarter of 1866, ending March 31, were as follows: Virginia, $22,270, 17; North Carolina, $37,310; South Carolina, $10,297 45; Tennessee, $10,000; Arkansas, $15,230. Total $125,107 62.

CHARGE OF TREASON.—Brig. Gen. Buckner, late of the Confederate States army, was arraigned in the United States Circuit Court, at Memphis, on the 6th instant, on a charge of treason, and held in $10,000 bail to answer at the next term of court.

THE PRIZE OF BEAUTY.—Last week, says the Newburyport, Mass., Herrld, a company of glass blowers closed a series of entertainments, with a prize of a glass bird—a very handsome present—to the handsomest lady in the hall. A committee of two gentlemen was appointed to decide who the fair woman should be. After a careful survey of the company they decided upon a lady of African descent, having black curls and black eyes, and a skin of the same color, and escorted her to the rostrum for the presentation.

Some years ago a New York lawyer, named Burrows, acted as agent for the Van Rensaelers when they sold the Metropolitan Hotel to Mr. Stewart. Burrows received the purchase money, $500,000, and decamped to Italy, where extraditions are unknown. After many years' splendid living on this plunder, he recently died in Tuscany.

The number of vetoes heretofore sent in is as follows: by Washington 2, by Madison 6, by Monroe 1, by Jackson 9, by Tyler 3, by Polk 3, by Buchanan 1, by Johnson 2. All of these were sustained, save an unimportant one of Tyler's and the last of Johnson's.

General W. W. Wood, the leader of the Brazilian emigration scheme, has renounced "his adopted country," and become again a citizen of Adams county, Miss.

The Marion (South Carolina) Star says that on the night of the 1st a portion of the United States Garrison there set fire to the house of Kate Lewis, a courtezan, burned up the school room of the free negroes, and beat several of their colored brethren unmercifully.

HEAVY CLAIM.—A resident of Boston has sued that city for eight hundred thousand dollars, which he claims for expenditures in procuring troops during the war.

General Canby has recently allowed the musicians of the New Orleans Academy to play "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

"TO THE MERCIFUL."—A baby in a basket, with a note addressed as above, was left Saturday night on the steps of the St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, in Washington, where it was found soon next morning, dead, having died from the exposure.

PERSONAL.—It is said that John Morrisey, the pugilist, is to be run for Congress by Tammany Hall in place of Gen. Nelson Taylor.

The Louisville Journal lets off the following bunch of sky-rockets:

We wish that the women would make among themselves an anti-stay law.

Happy remarks are often made by very unhappy men.

Obsequious men cannot too soon have their obsequies.

A reckless dispenser of pills deserves the pillory.

A vaunting man's mouth is a perpetual gas bill.

The Dead Duck was, even in life, a political quack.

There is many an uneasy man in an easy chair.

The men fret and the women flounce.

Better be a toad than a toady.

DAILY SENTINEL

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

Are Rebels to be Trusted?

We take the following from a late lecture on "Oaths, Armistices and Rebellions," by the Hon. Charles Gayarre, of New Orleans, delivered in that city:

Some centuries ago two kings were contending for the crown of Castile. I forget their names for the present, but to facilitate the telling of my story, I shall call one Alfonzo and the other John. Alfonzo proclaimed, of course, that John was a usurper and a rebel, and John returned the compliment. Well, John at last defeated his rival, horse and foot, and carried everything triumphantly before him, with the exception of a single town, which Alfonso had intrusted to a stout old knight, called Angilar, and which, after a long siege, still remained impregnable.

"You have done enough for honor," said king John one day to the knight, "surrender and you shall have the most liberal terms."

"If you read the history of your country," answered Aguilar, "you would have known that none of my race ever capitulated."

"I will starve you, proud and obstinate fool."

"Starve the eagle, if you can."

"I will put you and the whole garrison to the sword."

"Try," was the laconic reply, and the seige went on.

One morning as the rising sun was beginning to gladden with its rays the highest towers of the beleaguered city, a parley sounded from the camp of the enemy.

The old knight appeared on the wall, and looked down on the king below.

"Surrender!" said John again; "my rival, Alfonso, is dead, and the whole of Castile recognize my sway as that of its legitimate sovereign."

"Go, then, to Seville where his body lies.—You shall have my royal word that I shall attempt nothing against you on your way, nor against the city in your absence."

The knight came out with banner flying and a small escort of grim-visaged warriors. The gates were closed; before him the dense battalions of the enemy opened their ranks, and as he passed along slowly riding the noble war horse, shouts of admiration burst far and wide from the whole host who had so often witnessed his deeds of valor, and echoes of loud and enthusiastic greeting accompanied him until the red plume which waved over his helmet was out of sight. He arrived at Seville, and went straight to the cathedral where he found the tomb of his former sovereign. He had it opened, and after gazing awhile with moist eyes at the pale face which met his look, he thus addressed the dead monarch: "Sir, I had sworn never to deliver any body but yourself the keys of the town which you had entrusted to my care. Here they are; I have kept my oath," and he deposited them on the breast of King Alfonso. Then, bestriding his good steed, he galloped back to his post.

As soon as he approached, again the ranks of the enemy opened, and King John confronted him.

"Are you satisfied, and do you now give up the contest?"

"Yes, sire."

"Where are the keys of the town?"

"On King Alfonso's breast. Go and get them. We meet no more."

"By heaven, we shall never part!" exclaimed the King. "Get the keys back yourself, and remain in command of the town in my name."

The followers of the King murmured, and complained of his rewarding a rebel.

"He is no longer one," said King John. Such rebels, when won, become the best of subjects."

Had I the honor of approaching the President, I would take the liberty of saying to him: Follow this example, respected sir. Trust, without fear, those men who have fought to the last for the cause which they loved, and which claimed their fidelity. Trust those rebels who come to you with clean hands, after having deposited the keys of their loyalty on the dead body of the Southern Confederacy.

Reminiscence of Webster.

"One of the highest exhibitions of the general subject the world every witnessed was that of Daniel Webster, when, in an open barouche in the streets of Boston, he proclaimed to a vast assemblage of his constituents—unwilling hearers—that they had conquered an uncongenial clime, they had conquered most of the elements of the ocean, they had conquered most of the elements of nature, but they must yet learn to conquer their prejudices."—Alexander H. Stephens' Speech.

"This is a glowing strain. But what was the occasion of Daniel Webster's remark? a remark (by the way) not made from an 'open barouche,' but from a table in front of the Revere House."—New York Ind.

Stevens is right and the Independent wrong. Having been present on the occasion, we distinctly remember all the circumstances, and particularly that Mr. Webster stood in the carriage. Mr. Benj. R. Curtis, afterward Justice of the United States Supreme Court, made the welcoming address, standing on a table in front of the Revere. The windows of the building were crowded with ladies, among them Mrs. Harrison Gray Otis, who threw bouquets into the carriage.

It was on the 25th of April. The feeling of disappointment, indignation and regret excited by Mr. Webster's 7th of March speech, and his support of the compromise measures, was at its height. Three-fourths of his political friends refused to endorse his course, and the masses received him in sullen silence. Faneuil Hall was closed to him, and he was escorted from the depot to the Revere House by a few personal friends in carriages. But the square around the hotel was densely packed with people, anxiously awaiting the explanation which Mr. Webster was expected to give of his seeming betrayal of his constituents, and misrepresentation of the sentiment of the State.

During Mr. Curtis' speech Mr. Webster stood in the carriage, shading his face from the burning sun by his hand, and looking toward the house. At its conclusion he turned to the vast crowd around his carriage, and commenced his memorable reply. All heads were bent forward to catch each word that fell from his lips, but there were no manifestations of applause or disapprobation. The people maintained a perfectly respectful and even reverential demeanor during the whole speech, and it was not until the close of the magnificent peroration, spoken as no other man could speak, that their iciness thawed so as to greet him with a round of cheers.—St. Paul's Press.

RALEIGH, 1866.

LIFE INSURANCE NOTICE.

THE old and well established

Ætna Company, of Hartford,

Offers superior inducements to all who wish to provide for family or friends.

All losses are promptly paid. No case of litigation has ever occurred with this Company. With assetts of $2,300,000, it offers to receive one half of the premium in a note and half in cash, and, after the second year, to credit each customer with the dividends of the Company, which are now 50 per cent. With a small outlay $1,000, or $10,000, or $20,000, may be secured to the family after their earthly providers are taken away. What father or husband would not feel thankful on his dying couch, that he had availed himself of every proper means to place those nearest and dearest to him, above the pinchings of want, and a life of dependence upon friends or charity? 8 819 policies have been issued from the office ending Jan. 15, 1866. The total income for the year 1865 was $1,683,339 57; total disbursements $527,805 24, leaving a balance to surplus fund of $1,155,234 33.

In Raleigh, a large number have liberally responded and promptly acted in this matter; yet many delay, and may wait until it is too late. A man in this city lately left his place of business for his evening meal, well and healthy, but never reached that home except as he was carried there to die. Had that man taken the advice of the Agent, he might have left $5000 to minister to the necessities of a sorrowing family. Delays are dangerous, procrastination destructive. But one says, "If I only had confidence in the Company that it would pay, I would insure." Well, it never has failed to pay, and to-day is more responsible than ever before. It is patronized by some of the most sagacious minds in the land—men competent to detect and expose any deception if it existed.

Cotton, Tobacco, and all Crops.

In its action, it is as quick as Peruvian Guano, while it does not leave the land in an exhausted state, but on the other hand permanently improves it. This has been fully proven by years of trial.

COPARTNERSHIP.

NEWBERN, N. C., November 1st, 1865.

WE HAVE THIS DAY FORMED A COPARTnership under the name and style of

Whitford, Dill & Co.,

for the transaction of a Shipping and General
Commission Business, in this Town, West side Craven Street, on old County Wharf.

To the sale of Cotton, Naval Stores, Tobacco, Lumber, Staves, Shingles, Corn, and all kinds of Produce and Merchandise, and also to the sale and purchase of Real Estate and State and other Stocks, we will give our personal attention.

We are Agents for Murry's North Carolina Semi Weekly Line of Steamships, between Newbern and New York, and for Sailing Vessels for Baltimore, Philadelphia, and other ports in the United States and for different ports in the West Indies. Thus it will be seen that we are furnished by our own vessels with the amplest facilities for the speedy transportation of Freight and Passengers. But in addition to these, there is a weekly line of Ocean Steamships on the same route, and a tri-weekly line of Steamers by inland route through Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal to Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York; hence Merchants and Shippers entrusting the transportation of their freight to us, can rely with confidence on its speedy transit.

☞ We will make liberal advances on consignments.

All letters addressed to us on the subject of freight, or on any other business, will be promptly answered.

A Remarkable Case.

DISEASE IN WHICH THE LUNGS AND THROAT ARE INVOLVED.—Mrs. Phebe Perkinson, Petersburg, Va., (Aug. 26, 1865,) says: "I hereby certify, that two years ago last June, I was afflicted with a disease commonly called the Breast Complaint, the pain and weakness in the breast continued to increase so that I could not bear my clothes fastened on me for the space of two years; I found great difficulty in breathing; a general debility prevailed over my whole system—so much so, that I could not walk up the steps without drawing myself up by the banister; had a continued hacking cough, which distressed me greatly, four times during my illness had Hemorrhage of the Lungs. All medical treatment failed to afford me relief; it was the opinion of my friends that I must die with the consumption. I was advised to use the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS; after using three boxes, strictly according to directions, I find myself in the enjoyment of perfect health; I have a good appetite, have become as fleshy as I ever was, sleep sound and pleasant, and can perform any duty with as much strength and vigor as I ever did. They certainly have acted like a perfect charm on me."

☞ For sale by the Druggists. Directions accompany each box. Sent to any part of the United States for $3 per dozen. Address,
